Balloting for Bethel town offices (and statewide primary balloting) took place yesterday, but the polls closed too late for the results to be included in this week's edition of The Citizen. Full election results can be found in today's Norway area edition of our daily affiliate, the Sun-Journal.

Voters will decide whether the municipal portion of their town budget (excluding school and county taxes) will go up by the 10 percent recommended by the selectmen or the smaller figure of 4.6 percent recommended by the town's Budget Committee.

Last year, faced with a similar choice between the recommendations of the two boards, the 100 or so voters who showed up opted overwhelmingly to go along with the lower, Budget Committee

Smallest class of Rebels graduates

By WENDY HANSCOM

In front of a gymnasium packed to capacity with friends and family, 53 seniors turned their tassels Friday evening, signifying their graduation from Telstar Regional High School.

It was the smallest graduating class in Telstar's 26-year history. The Class of 1994 Valedictorian Joshua Fogg urged the graduates to

"Don't waste one day of life," Fogg said. "Don't doubt your ability to deal with anything in life. There's something good in everything." Fogg told the graduates to stay active and in touch.

"Take good care of yourself," he said. "Don't grow old before you're old. Life should not be seen from the bleachers. Remember who you are and where you came from. Take each day for what it's worth and remember you can learn something from everything."

Salutatorian Jennifer Bowie told her classmates to strive for any and

"The dream does not have to be an impossible wish, but something you want to accomplish," Bowie said. "Society sometimes laughs at those who are obsessed by their dreams, but when they meet their dreams, people worship them. Listen to the wishes your heart is making and make your dreams come true."

Third honors student Cherilyn Myers asked the graduates to make learning a lifetime goal.

"It's easy to have qualms about our futures," Myers said. "There are reports that ours could be the first generation to do worse than our parents. The main thing for us is to never stop learning. Keep up with technology. We can see these challenges as the great opportunities they are and not the roadblocks that some would have us believe they are.' SAD44 Board of Directors Chairman Margaret Hand offered the board's congratulations.

She told the graduates that they should be thankful to their parents, teachers and SAD44 taxpayers for their education.

Superintendent of Schools Ronald Jenkins told the class to spread their wings, but to remember to fly back to their roots.

Telstar Principal Theodore Davis announced that the class had been awarded more than $150,000 in scholarships.

The graduates continued the school tradition of slipping the principal something when they shook his hand after accepting their diplomas. The 53 students each passed Davis a playing card.

Andover

Mil rate could nearly double

By WENDY HANSCOM

Andover's mil rate is likely to nearly double for 1994, because of a change in the state tax law that until recently went unnoticed.

Andover has yet to commit its taxes, but selectman Kathy Williamson said Monday the mil rate will probably jump from the current rate of 12 mils to at least 22 mils for

The jump comes because the town will be losing about $13 million worth of MCI Telecommunications Corporation personal property and equipment excise tax,

Town selectmen recently learned that the taxes should have been going to the state, not the town -and will go to the state in 1994.

A $13 million town devaluation will also probably net SAD44 slightly more in state aid next year, but what's not picked up from the state must be made up by other SAD44 towns.

SAD44 towns.

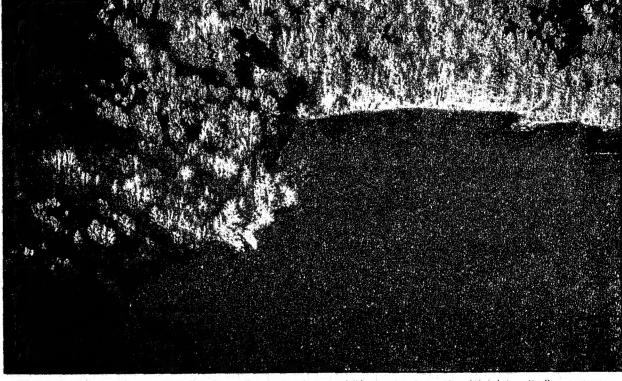

Selectmen explained the mix-up in a letter released last week.

"When COMSAT was the owners and operator of MCI," the selectmen explained, "it was determined by the State Board of Taxation that since COMSAT was not a telephone company as defined. not a telephone company as defined by state laws, its taxes would go to the town and not the state.

"Later, the statute was changed and broadened, so that telecom-munications businesses were required to pay an excise tax to the state on their personal property and equipment, which then became exempt from local taxation.

"When MCI purchased COM-SAT's Telstar facility," the selectmen's statement stated, "it continued to pay taxes to the town of Andover on its real and personal property as COMSAT had done,

INDIAN POND DELTA-In what the Oxford Country Soil and Water Conservation District calls "an extreme case of erosion," a 12- to 15-foot-long delta of sediment (center) has formed in Indian Pond in Greenwood, at the foot of Indian Pond Road, which connects the pond with Rowe Hill Road. Town officials say the damage is the responsibility of a private fish and game club, which established a fishing access point at the site. "Nobody's really maintaining it now -- that's the problem," said OCSWCD district manager Jim Chandler. Erosion was responsible for 90 percent of the phosphorus damage to China Lake, according to a former state official who has worked to bring the lake back to health. Erosion will be the main topic of discussion at the annual meeting of the Community Lakes Association of Woodstock and Greenwood, to be held Saturday, July 23 from 9 to 11 a.m., at the Maine Conservation School in Bryant Pond. The public is encouraged to attend the lakes association meeting, which will include a discussion of the recently completed Lake Christopher Watershed Survey. Chandler will also be presenting the survey results to a joint meeting on the Woodstock Planning Board and Board of Selectmen on June 21, at 6:30 p.m. in the Woodstock Town Office.

Baseball playoffs

Telstar goes down swinging

They came in with a full head of steam, but went out swinging at air, and at curve balls in the dirt.

The 1994 Telstar baseball team wrapped up a strong season Thursday, losing 0-2 to tenth-ranked Carrebec in the Western Maine Class C playoff quarterfinal.

The number-two ranked Rebels went into the playoffs coming off a seven game winning streak. But Cobra pitcher Adam Hinkley threw what was probably the best game of his career, and the Rebels came up with only three hits and no runs.

"He had a curve ball in the dirt," Telstar coach Robert Remington said, "and it was a bad one. Carrabec probably played their best game of the year, and I know the pitcher pitched the best game of his

in Carrabec batters early in the game. Gilson walked the first batter he faced, but went on to strike out three to end the first inning, leaving one Cobra runner stranded.

The Rebel defense turned a double play to retire the side in the second, and it was three up, three down for the Cobras in the third.

But in the fourth, Carrabec ended the scoreless stretch, when their catcher went to first on a single, second on a passed ball, third on a sacrifice and home on single.
Cobra bats were quiet for the next two innings. Gilson struck out two in the fifth, and retired the side with two more strikeouts in the sixth. But Carrabec added an insurance run in the seventh.

Telstar threatened twice in the game, but failed to score, stranding five runners.

In the first inning, Tim Remington got on base on an infield chop. He went to second on Clint Myers' sacrifice bunt and to third on a long fly by Gilson. But cleanup batter Adam Newell went down swinging, and Chris Howe popped out to left for the third out.

Telstar batters went down one, two, three in the second and third, but reached again in the fourth.

Newell went to first on an error and to second on a wild pitch. Howe walked to put two men on, and with one out Cory Koch loaded the bases on an error. But the Rebel threat ended when Ken- Mason struck out, Josh Adams bounced the ball back to the pitcher and Newell was thrown out at home before he got anywhere near the plate.

Telstar only reached base once more in the final three innings. The

Jenkins withdraws SAD44 transportation bid

SAD44's budget meeting was tame in comparison to Upton's school budget meeting last week.

It was standing-room only Thursday evening as 52 Upton voters packed the town's small school house meeting room to discuss how to educate the town's nine students. Three months ago, at Town Meeting time, residents passed over approving a school budget.

The School Committee needed more time to come up with a plan to transport the town's children to SAD44, committee members said. The town is in its third and final year of a contract with SAD44 to educate its students.

Thursday evening, the School Committee presented a plan that would nearly triple the town's school budget and probably at least double property tax bills, town officials said. Last year the town appropriated about $28,000 toward the education of five students. This year, the School Committee asked for

The $76,043 includes tuition for 11 students next year. The money would cover the nine students the town knows it's sending, enough money to cover an overdraft in tuition for a student who moved into town after the current school year started, and $4,500 extra in case another student moves to town. The balance is for transportation.

The town had no kindergarten students for the 1993-94 school year. No midday run was needed and transportation costs were kept

For 1993-94, the town's six students were transported to the Newry Town Office in a private vehicle. But this fall, the fown will send three students to kindergarten, for a total of nine students, which re-quires a midday run and a vehicle larger than the usual private

The School Committee put its transportation needs out to bid. The bid specs offered a one-year contract and required that the bidder purchase a 15-passenger van to hauf the students. The only bid came in

SAD44 Superintendent Ronald

Taking him up on the offer would save taxpayers $7,200, he said. The town could also cut $4,500 by climinating the money set aside in case another student moved to town, he said, for a total savings of

The town turned down that proposal by a vote of 33 to 11.
Following the vote, Jenkins was questioned repeatedly on the $27,000 figure.

He responded, also repeatedly, that the proposed figure was: less See UPTON STYMIED, page 2

SHOW UP AT TOWN MEETING

To the Editor:

I would like to urge all eligible voters of Bethel to attend town meeting this evening.

As you know the school budget this year will increase our tax rate by 9.48 percent -- this amount coupled with an increase in our municipal budget will place quite a burden on all businesses and households.

The budget committee and selectmen have tried to keep increases down as much as they could. There is one major difference between the selectmen and the budget committee and that is the purchase of another new truck. The budget committee has recommended no purchase (the old truck can be fixed).

Every little bit that can be saved should be saved.

Perhaps later on, if we have an increase in our tax base we can afford to spend more. But the budget committee did not think that the time

RESPECT OTHERS' OPINIONS

To the Editor:

By the time this week's Citizen is published, the election will be over and the person winning will know who he/she is. My congratulations to the person elected, whether it be Harry Faulkner, Larry Smith, Rick Whitney or myself.

This letter is in response to the letter from John Head in last week's Citizen -- to comments like, "Equally silly," "whatever happened to the goose and the gander," and "And pray tell me, what is 'limited com-

Take a look at subdivisions in the Town of Bethel and you will see zoning in a disguised form called "covenants."

I find it saddening that Mr. Head doesn't feel that all of us have a

"deep abiding love" for this community. Having been born and raised here like Mr. Head, I am offended that he believes his chosen candidate is the only one who appears to have this concern for Bethel. I feel if the candidates didn't care about this community they wouldn't be interested in its well being by running for selectmen or continuing to live

Am I a being a little sensitive? Yes. Why? Because I am a person of compassion and I put everything into what I do and am deeply committed to what I put my mind into doing. I am not one that has the time to sit around and belittle or ridicule what other's opinions might be.

It's easy to give directions when your not the driver. The night of the forum was for the candidates' opinions. Each person had their own opinion and I feel those opinions should be respected, whether John liked them or not. I feel that all the candidates respected each others opinions. I am a firm believer that each voter has to make up their own mind, and that their is no room for ridiculing a person's opinion. If you don't agree with that person's opinion, fine, but let people make up their own minds without stooping to innuendos.

In closing I will say that we all have the freedom of speech and the right to vote our own conscience. It is wonderful,

ABSTINENCE IS THE SOLUTION

To the Editor:

As I read the article concerning the "Condom Comics" (Citizen, June 1), I noted a statement that appeared on page 2 that was attributed to Mr. Savage. I was struck by how easily falsehoods and glib cliches are

Mr. Savage is quoted in the article as having said, "You're still going to have people teaching solely abstinence, but abstinence isn't work-

Come now. Abstinence not only works, it is the only thing that does work! Abstinence has never caused a single case of HIV/Aids or a single pregnancy. On the other hand, condom failure accounts for many of the HIV/Aids or teen pregnancies that we see today.

I believe that one of the reasons that kids are sexually active without evolved into societies lacking in moral integrity. As long as our public schools teach that sex is an acceptable part of relationships outside of marriage, we will continue to see the spread of teen pregnancies and HIV/Aids cases.

Those of us who teach abstinence will not accept the blame for the teen pregnancies or HIV/Aids cases so prevalent among teens today. These problems came about because we were ignored and the policies of the very organizations that supplied Mr. Savage with his research material were implemented instead. They are to blame.

YES, BRING BACK THE MUSIC

The letter in last week's paper from Jennifer Felt has prompted me to express my similar concern at the lack of any music program in the Telstar High School and Junior High.

I was a very involved member of the music programs offered by the school from 1970 until I graduated in 1978. During that time period the marching and concert band had as many as 60 members. We had a very active stage band and placed very well in several competitions. We conducted exchange concerts with other schools as well. We also had a very active booster club. For several years after I left I know that the band continued to do well and won prizes, etc. It was a good learning experience for all of us.

It was with great sadness and dismay that I watched a band from another high school, not unlike our own in size, be hired to do our local Memorial Day parades! Shame on us as a community for allowing the school to cut the program. The school budget is a phenomenal $7,000,000 -- where has the money gone that used to go to the music ager Madeleine Henley invited the two committees to the town garage Monday evening, where Road Foreman Bob Pilgrim and Mechanic Rod Whithey described the condition of the old plow, a 1980 and reviewed maintenance records on the truck.

Pilgrim described the truck as unsafe -- and illegal -- to operate because of fumes and noise problems. He also contended that the town would get better use out of its other plowing equipment if the old plow was replaced.

The Budget Committee members present (five members did not attend) seemed open to the road crew's arguments, although they took no formal action following the meeting.

"I don't think it was ever explained to us that the other equipment would be better utilized," said Becky Kendall.

The selectmen are standing by their recommendation for a new truck. Tonight voters will decide the issue.

Voters will also decide whether to spend the additional $500 that the selectmen recommend (but the budget committee declined) for plantings in traffic islands, window boxes and on the common. If voters go along with the Budget Committee's recommendations, the municipal budget for the coming year will be $1,225,688, or $54,145 higher than this year's figure.

If they agree with the selectmen's recommendations, the budget will be $1,286,188 or $114,645 higher revised to eliminate references to than the current budget,

Only minor Ordinance changes There are a half dozen ordinance changes on this year's Town Meeting warrant, but all are relatively minor updatings of wording changes.

A change to the sign ordinance would eliminate the need for variances when dealing with multiple businesses at a single site.

The Planning Board and Board of Appeals ordinances are being changed to clarify the appointment and succession of members.

The Site Plan Ordinance is being Auditorium at Telstar, outdated regulations.

And proposed changes to the shoreland zoning ordinance would make it possible for disabled individuals to apply for variances based on their disability.

Town officials anticipate little or no opposition to the ordinance revisions. At a recent public hearing on the changes, only two people showed up, and they were there to question a proposed revision that was ultimately tabled (see box), Bethel's 1994 annual Town Meeting will be held at 7 p.m. tonight (June 15) in the Helen Berry

Building permit revisions tabled

The Bethel Board of Selectmen will not be presenting Town Meeting voters with a major elabloration of the town's Building Permit Ordinance -- at least not at this year's meeting.

Bethel Code Enforcement Officer Norman Putnam had drafted a revision of the current ordinance -- which was adopted by the town 40

The revision expanded the length of the ordinance from three-quarters of a page to four (single-spaced) pages.

It also set out new fees for building and subsurface waste disposal permits, and raised the fees for violations.

At a recent hearing on proposed ordinance changes, selectman Bob Chadbourne called the revisions " a great idea," but he said Putnam's version was premature and in need of both more work and greater input from people who would be affected by the revisions.

Don Feeney -- who with his wife, Ruth, made up the entire audience for the hearing -- agreed. "The intent is good, but the wording is very regimented," he said. "I see more and more hurdles to people doing their ordinary, everyday business."

The selectmen agreed to table the draft and to find a way to include more people in the revision process.

than what the state allowed for, based on town-provided mileage figures and the cheapest the district could afford.

"It makes no difference to me if we do it or not," Jenkins said. "SAD44 won't make or lose any money on it. The state doesn't allow us to make money on it . . . I'm not negotiating the $27,000."

At one point during the meeting, clearly annoyed at being badgered about the figure, Jenkins said he was withdrawing the district's offer, He said Monday he might reconsider his position, but would prefer that the town find alternate transportation plans. Upton voters argued that several other options were available. They included:

-- breaking part of the town's contract with SAD44 and sending kindergarteners to nearby Errol, N.H. -- sending the kindergarteners, or possibly all elementary students, to Andover Elementary School, which is closer than Crescent Park School. (But Jenkins said that as SAD44 superintendent he would not allow it because the road is too dangerous in the winter.)

-- buying a town-owned 12- or 15-passenger van.

-- writing the private bid specs for a longer contract period with a smaller van.

-- putting kindergarten students into first-grade, or day care in Bethel, for the afternoon.

After two hours of mild bickering over the options, voters decided to send the issue back to the School Committee. The committee was charged with more thoroughly investigating the expense of a town-owned 12passenger van, and of hiring a driver for it. According to state law, Jenkins said, the town is supposed to approve a school budget by July 1.

The next School Committee meeting is June 15 at 3:30 p.m.

Another Town Meeting will need to be held in order to approve the SAD44 will also assess the town about $535,000 for the district's FY '95, which is up about $90,000 from last year.

The town collected approximately $156,000 in assessment from the $13 million in MCI personal property. Without that money, the rest of Andover's taxpayers will have to chip in enough to cover the town's bills.

"From the figures I'm working with," Williamson said, "It looks like about a 10 mil increase. That's a lot of money. It's devastating." Williamson said the town is planning to call the state to see if there is any money available to help offset the loss. For example, she said, money that could be used to help pay SAD44.

Selectmen are also waiting to hear if the state will seek to recover from MCI or the town back property and . excise tax paid in error to the town.

MCI is also currently appealing to the State Board of Property Tax Review its town assessments for 1988 through 1991. Selectmen are scheduled to meet with the tax review board today (Wednesday) to discuss the appeals.

Because the town can no longer collect on the MCI's personal property, its state evaluation will go down in 1995, Williamson said.

Violet and Robert Swain have returned from a three-week trip to Oregon, Washington and Ketchikan, Alaska. They left Andover on May 9 and flew from Portland, Maine, to Portland, Ore., where they were met by Charles Beek and his wife Norma. Charlie and Violet were high school classmates. They cruised Puget Sound with a former Andover resident, C. Russell Learned, and his wife Donna on their 45-foot cabin cruiser. The Learneds reside in Gig Harbor. In Washington, Violet and a 1918 friend from Federal Way had lunch in "The Needle," a revolving restaurant 500 feet up overlooking Scattle. Later they were dinner guests of officers of "The Evergreen" chapter of the "1918 Club." Plans were made to join that chapter in August, as they host the International Convention.

On May 17, the Swains flew to the island of Ketchikan, Alaska, toured the island, visited with friends and fished for king salmon, cod and halibut. They returned home with plenty of fish. Violet caught a 29pound king and Robert a 25-pound salmon. The Alaskan weather was four clear days and 12 consecutive days of rain or showers.

They enjoyed a 10-hour ferry trip around the island and saw many eagles, sea lions, killer whales and porpoise. On one chartered fishing trip they saw as many as 30 eagles Audubon, National Geographic, and fishing for herring. Eagles were all

Rose bushes, peonies and strawberries -- these are some of the nice things June has to offer. As the poet laureate Lowell proclaimed: "What is so rare as a day in June? Then -- if ever, come perfect days. Then heaven tries the earth If it be in tune,

And over it softly her warm ear

In my grandmother's garden in June in Norway, red, white and pink peonies as big as bushel baskets (it seemed) blossomed, and upon the trellis as you entered the garden, entwined a climbing rose bush, I remember its name to this day; it was intriguingly called a "Paul Scarlett." Out in the fields at my aunt's farm grew the wild strawberries, and on a warm day the smell of their sunkissed fruit blew across the open veranda as the sun tipped high at noon in a cloudless turquoise sky. After lunch we would take our berry pails (old three-pound Hormel lard cans with handles) and venture out into the back pasture to pick the sweet, warm fruit for supper. By mid-afternoon the field was partly

Locke Mills

By LORRAINE MILLS

What gorgeous weather these past three days! The nights, I suppose, are really too cool for gardens, but it's been good sleeping weather. I did manage to get Marcia Saturday at Lewiston. I did not have the van after all, but the truck, and I was pleased that everything went so smoothly. I did get lost once, this time going in. I followed a truck off to the right before Canal Street, but when I found a sign saying 295 to the left. I took that left and was pleased to find I got to the restaurant with only one light to contend with. Since I'd been trying to find a way around on the map and couldn't, I was delighted to find that there is a better way, after all, than going through all those lights.

Charlotte Cole and Helen Chase attended the services at the Hunts Corner Church on June 5. Charlotte sang two hymns to help with the service. They also took food to help on the dinner and went to see Erland and Alberta Scribner. Alberta is feeling better but is not up to par

My sister-in-law, Mary E. Mills, was expected to be brought to Don and Marolyn Mills' house in North Norway by ambulance on Thursday. She is quite a bit stronger but has a long way to go before she will be able to get around as before. I asked her if she fell before she got dinner or after, and she said she fell on the way out, so she did get to enjoy her dinner anyway.

Gladys Jordan and Vera Cross accompanied Charlotte Cole to Ledgeview Nursing Home on Thursday. While Charlotte entertained the other patients, Gladys and Vera visited Merle Lurvey, Dora Dingley and Gladys Ellingwood. Gladys taught school here at Locke Mills and also was one of Vera's teachers on Rowe Hill.

Marcia and I were at Owen and Debbie Brown's camp on the Gore Road on Wednesday morning visiting Debbie and touring the camp. It is coming right along, but I'm sure it seems slow to them. It is right at the stage where it is beginning to look livable and they are anxious to get it

Charlotte Cole and Vera Cross went recently to see Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tyler and Annie Walker. Annie had just celebrated her 103rd birthday. She was as pert as ever and had enjoyed a ride around the grounds in her wheelchair that day. She told them that she was planning to come to bingo that coming Friday. Someone brings her in a wheelchair and everyone at the Legion Hall is happy to see her. Mildred Tyler wants to say "Hello" to all her friends at Locke Mills. It was good to see all of their friends again.

The teen group, "Soldiers of the Cross," from Praise Assembly of God, plan to come this Saturday and do some more yard work for me. Maybe some day it will look half decent. Rick Roy keeps the lawn looking nice with his riding mower, but the back yard is full of old wood° and junk, and stuff John used at the garden. Since he had his own unique way of gardening, most of it is not usable by anyone else. I'm afraid my idea of gardening is throwing all-the seeds in and hoping for the best. God certainly uses that method for the weeds, and look how they grow.

Roy and Claire Smith from Wallingford, Conn., called on her Aunt Vera Cross for a few minutes on Fri-

I can't remember if I mentioned this -- when I went to see Dora Dingley at Ledgeview recently she mentioned that she didn't have any cards. So, if any of you have any pretty greeting cards like the "Missing You" or "Thinking of You" variety, Dora loves cards and would appreciate, I'm sure, hearing from her

The East Stoneham cemeteries look real nice with the flags flying and pretty plants and flowers, and the sexton keeps it looking nice as usual, keeping the grass mowed when needed, with his helpers.

Ellery and Charles Lawrence have been helping the sexton with the mowing of the cemetery.

We delivered wood to Locke Mills, and on the way back stopped at Cisco & Poncho's Restaurant at Snow Falls (formerly Katie's Kitchen) on Wednesday, June 8. We found the food just as good as usual, but there is much smaller space. From there, we stopped and had a nice visit with Jean Mackenzie at South Paris. Father's Day! Sunday, the 19th. Did you ever stop to think what the word Father means? Well, I will tell you. The word Father comes from the Anglo Saxon, "Faeder," as feeder or one who feeds, provides food. Or "Feather" covering, clo-thing or protection. Interesting, isn't it? The word Father also means "Peter" or "Patris" or "Pope." There is a lot more to the name but it will Lilacs, apple blossoms and bob-olinks! What could be more beautiful? Last Sunday, June 5, Ann and I walked among them. I call the bobo-links "Laughter on Wings." They have a kind of lyric flight that gives ultimate meaning to the feathered wings. Over our heads, to the right, to the left they flew. Then for a change, on some tall spear of grass, they would rest to sway in the breeze, bubbling at all times.

The bees were out and humming, on lilacs that were so full of blooms. We walked most to the hilltop, where we could see mountains big, mountains little, a sweep of the pond does more than just paint murals; he and the road, where traffic rushed designs interactive exhibits for chil- through hardly noticing the beauty around them,

Right now, the time of lilacs and apple blossoms, the time between new leaf and full foliage, I can describe only as "dainty." It's so green and a freshly flowing world, it's as dainty as fine lace and as fragile as dewdrops on a spider web at dawn,

Apple blossoms are no more dainty than a rose, but a whole tree full of them, pink and white trimmed in green near a group of lilacs on fresh bold filigree of purple and against a deep blue sky is certainly magnificently dainty. All these with a hillside of green grass, trees all lacy, from a distance, dancing in air where the sun shines on them makes perfection.

A four-season world blesses us all whether our station is high or low. elements then we are rewarded with visions like this, that lift the spirit. Every day is different.

The 50th reunion of the class of 1944 of Woodstock High School was a great success. There were 18 who started in the freshman class, five are deceased, which leaves 13 that could attend, and 11 attended. GOULD GRAD IN NCAA LACROSSE CHAMPIONSHIP

Gould Academy graduate and Hobart lacrosse defenseman Tom Pena was ranked third on the team for ground balls in 1994, and is one of three Hobart players selected to play in the annual North-South All-Star Game on June 10 at Johns Hopkins University.

The 6-0, 180 lb. long-stick defender had one assist in the NCAA Division III Championships Saturday, which Hobart lost to Salisbury State 15-9.

Pena earned All-State honors in basketball and lacrosse at Gould, but was a virtual unknown at the college level until his junior year, when he earned Second Team All-American honors.

At Gould, he was coached by fac-ulty member Will Graham, who was an All-American and captain at Middlebury College in 1977. Graham said he was surprised and impressed by the news of Pena's successful season and selection to the North-South game.

Hobart finished the season with an 11-3 record. Hobart has won 12 of the last 14 Division III National titles, and will move to Division I in

Bethel couple hurt in Wilton accident

Wednesday, June 15, 1994

WILTON--A Bethel couple was injured Friday morning in a three-car accident at the intersection of Route 2 and New Jay Street in Wilton. Ernest Perkins, 76, and is wife, Lillian Perkins, were both transferred to Franklin Memorial Hospital following the 10:30 a.m. accident. Ernest Perkins was released from the hospital Friday, but returned Sunday and remains at Franklin Memorial for observation of a head injury, according to a hospital spokeswoman, who said Perkins wanted people to know that he's "a little lame, but doing much better."

Lillian Perkins was transferred to Maine Medical Center over the weekend, where she is listed in serious condition. She fractured several ribs in the accident; the spokeswoman said.

Mr. Perkins was headed east on Route 2 and attempting to turn into New Jay Road. He failed to see Michael Day, 23, of Andover, who was headed west on Route 2, according to police. Day's 1985 Mercury sedan hit Perkins' 1994 Ford sedan on the passenger side. The Perkins' vehicle then spun and hit a 1986 Toyota sedan driven by Jane Standen, 61, of Weld, which was parked at the intersection and getting ready to cross Route 2. Standen was uninjured. Mrs. Perkins was trapped inside the vehicle and had to be extricated by the Wilton Fire Department.

Junk cars to benefit Special Olympics

PORTSMOUTH, N.H ,-- Organizers of the program "Recycle for Gold" are hoping junk car owners will give their battered relics to the Maine Special Olympics. By calling a toll-free number, 1-800-954-0954, a truck will come and tow the caller's junk car away within 10 days. The vehicle will be taken to the nearest participating salvage dealer, according to program officials. Then one of three things will happen to the car. It will be crushed for recycling and Special Olympics will receive $21.25. The usable parts will be sold and the rest of the car crushed and recycled. Or, the car will be sold at auction for as much as possible and Special Olympics will receive half the value. The idea for the program originated in Massachusetts, where the state's Specials Olympics program has averaged $5,000 per week. Maine participants are hoping to raise at least $20,000 to kick off Athletes for Outreach in the state, a public program for people with mental retardation.

From the Bethel Police log:

Accident report leads to assault arrest; woman accosted near ski train

On June 2, police responded to a report of a car accident on Route 232. Police determined that the man had not been in an accident but had been assaulted. The victim told police he had been assaulted by George Tuttle III, 27, of Bethel. Police went to Tuttle's home. Tuttle admitted to hitting the man, according to the police report, and said the man had borrowed his car and wrecked it. The report stated that there was blood on Tuttle's floor, and blood and hair on his knuckles. Tuttle was placed under arrest and charged with aggravated assault. Once in the cruiser, the report says, Tuttle became combative and ultimately kicked out a plastic shield in the back seat. He was restrained and transported to Oxford County Jail.

On June 8, a Bethel woman reported that while she was walking on Railroad Street a man came out from near the ski train and asked her to have sex with him. When she refused, he made sexual threats, but she was able to leave without a struggle. She told police the man said he was from Oregon and "rode the rails." He was described as a clean cut, well-dressed white male in his 20s.

In other recent police news, on June 5, a Bethel village woman reported a man in a car had followed her home. Police made no contact with the vehicle.

On June 11, police responded to a report that one of four juveniles in a white car on the Sunday River Road had pointed a sawed off shotgun at two bicyclists. Police did not locate the vehicle.

On June 10, a man reported seeing two vehicles collide, resulting in substantial damage, at the intersection of Route 26 and the Intervale Road. Both vehicles were gone before police arrived.

One June 11, a Route 2 businessman reported the theft of several hundred personal CDs, valued at about $3,750. On June 12, police responded to a report of several motorist stopped to look at moose on Route 2. The caller was worried the vehicles were creating a traffic hazard. Police went to the scene, blew the cruiser horn, which sent the animal into the woods and the cars on their way.

Pay-per-bag fees protested

ANDOVER--At a special Town Meeting last week, 20 residents told selectmen that they don't want to pay a fee for every bag of garbage they bring in, but said they did want the town to supply: clear plastic bags, stricter policing of the dump and more education on recycling.

The town has been ordered to close its dump on July 1, but the exact method for the closing has not been approved by the state Department of Environmental Protection. Once the dump is closed recycling will become mandatory. Selectman Kathy Williams said if recycling does not increase once the dump closes, that selectmen will consider a pay-per-

Number of Maine farms dropping

WASHINGTON, D.C.--Results of the 1992 Census of Agriculture show that Maine had 5,776 farms in 1992 compared to 6,269 farms in 1987. Maine had 1,258,297 acres of land in farms in 1992, and the federal Commerce Department's Census Bureau reports that 44 percent of all farms sold $10,000 or more in agricultural products.

One of the major agricultural products in Maine was Irish potatoes, with 87,650 acres harvested in 1992 compared to 83,261 acres in 1987. In 1992, 25 million hundredweights of the potatoes were harvested compared to 22 million hundredweights in 1987.

Other census findings were: the state's operators paid $19 million for livestock and poultry, and $71 million for feed for livestock and poultry. Operators paid $19 million for commercial fertilizers and $416 million for agricultural chemicals.

Sunday River tries new approach

NEWRY--Sunday River Ski Resort will ask the Newry Planning Board for a letter stating that the resort has permission to build a proposed Jordan Bowl access road.

The resort had asked for a waiver of the site plan review process, because the town and the state have both already granted shoreland zoning permits for the proposed road. The road would travel from the end of the Monkey Brook Road to new development in the Jordan Bowl in Riley

"Sunday River wrote a letter to the Planning Board asking that the board clarify its position relative to the Jordan Bowl access road," said Burt Mills, resort vice president of mountain operations. "It's kind of a formality. We have a shoreland zoning permit and state Department of Environmental Protection permission to build the road. We went through the shoreland zoning process, but not the site plan review process. When we came back to talk about the secondary access road, we were told that Jordan Bowl should have fallen under the site plan review. We want a letter stating that we don't need the review."

The planning board will consider the issue Wednesday, June 15 at 7 p.m. at the town office.

Carrabasset blowing "snowfluent"

CARRABASSET VALLEY--Approximately 6 million gallons of treated wastewater from the residences and businesses of Sugarloaf/USA was used this past winter for making snow -- but not for snow to be used on ski trails. According to the June issue of the Journal of the Maine Waste Water Control Association, in February the Carrabasset Valley Sanitary District became the first waste district in the country to use a Canadian process for making snow out of treated effluent. The wastewater was essentially stockpiled in the form of snow for eventual melting and disposal over the spring and early summer -- when demand on the system is much lower. The "Snowfluent" process was developed by Delta Engineering of Ottawa, Ontario. It is projected that the process could double the capacity of the current CVSD system. This year's trial with "Snowfluent" at CVSD was under an experimental permit from the Maine Department of Environmental Protection. Construction of a permanent system is proposed for this summer.

Sunday River to Sea begins Friday

Over the past nine years, 3,500 cyclists have raised over $1.4 million for the American Lung Association of Maine.
